Welcome to the TTWG SharePoint site!

The TTWG primarily includes technology transfer professionals from the Laboratories, single purpose research facilities and production facilities, and DOE/NNSA field elements, working together to improve the technology transfer activities of the laboratories/facilities and the Department. The members will promote the implementation of DOE Laboratory technology transfer policy in a mutually beneficial, supportive, and non-adversarial working environment that encourages open communication, teamwork, and professional development.

Operating at the working level to address technology transfer activities, issues, and concerns, the TTWG does not establish policy, but works collegially under the oversight of the Technology Transfer Coordinator and in conjunction with the Technology Transfer Policy Board.

The objectives of the Working Group are to:

1. Coordinate technology transfer activities occurring at National Laboratories and single purpose research and production facilities.
2. Exchange information about technology transfer practices, including alternative approaches to resolution of disputes involving intellectual property rights and other technology transfer matters.
3. Develop and disseminate to the public and prospective technology partners information about DOE/NNSA technology transfer matters.

Note: Files contained within the Practitioner Resources are provided for the benefit of this community, and may not align with the current opinion or policy of the Department. Any information or opinions should be verified by a person with authority on the topic before action is taken.
